

On The Road – Stories and Stats of America’s Favorite and Most Skillfully Consistent Cowgirl

The summer has proven as solid ground recently, as Kenda Lenseigne continued to hold her standing as a sharp cornered competitor on her expedition to the top. Proudly riding for the renowned names of Circle Y Saddles, Professional’s Choice, Twisted X Boots, Cimarron Firearms, and Barranada Clothing, she continues to impress and represent a higher standard of competition in the sport of Cowboy Mounted Shooting.

After planning goals and getting ready to begin a long road trip from their home base in Ellensburg, Washington Kenda and her horse Justin find their way back into the urge to say yes to yet another quest in steaming along the pathway to another potential golden pot of championships.

The three week tour began on August 18th, 2009 from Washington State, with a stop in Montana and the final destination being Murfreesboro, Tennessee on this particular campaign. Although currently still on the road, the final battleground of the Eastern United States Championship couldn’t possibly end up being the only stamp on yet another documentation in her long skilled list of notable accolades.

On the weekend of August 19th, Kenda and Justin set their sights on a shoot series in Three Forks, Montana, where the Montana State Championship and the North Mountain Regional Championship were held.

The pair dominated the competition, both men and women, by taking the High Overall Champion title at the Montana State Championship, the first shoot of the weekend’s series. Much like other co-ed sports, Cowboy Mounted Shooting is typically dominated by the Cowboys. To have a Cowgirl continue to beat all of the competition at this pace is gratifying (Kenda is the only woman to have won a high overall at a major, and she has done this three times). She is proven in these accomplishments and continues to open up new doors and goals for cowgirls everywhere.

Kenda continued on this path, and added the Pro Class Champion and Eliminator Champion titles to the list for the weekend. To place final color on a canvas of triumph, she places herself again as North Mountain Regional Overall Cowgirl.

Kenda Lenseigne, and her quest to the top. Follow her here. Her actions will be proven, her story told in short words thereafter. Tennessee is next beginning August 29th. Stay tuned... more to come.
