

Kenda Dismounts for Bianchi Cup

Reigning CMSA World and National Champion Wins Celebrity Action Pistol Shoot Off.

by Sherry Smith

Kenda Lenseigne joined other celebrities to compete in the 32nd NRA Bianchi Cup Celebrity Speed Event in Columbia, Missouri in May. The competition draws the top action pistol shooters from around the world for the four-day festivities.

Events are designed to challenge participants in all pistol disciplines from Bull's-Eye target firing to police pistol combat and practical shooting. Like mounted shooting, speed and accuracy are key to winning—with two major differences, live ammo and no horse.

Invited celebrities shot it out for some serious fun in a falling plate speed and accuracy event requiring the participants to draw and fire at six plates from a distance of 10 yards. Competitors stand side-by-side in a designated box, with digitally displayed timers allowing the audience to watch the split seconds pass for each competitor as well as the plates falling, and in some cases, not falling. All plates must be knocked down to score with the fastest time winning the sequence.

Kenda, the only female celebrity competitor, strapped on a belt and holster provided by Safariland. Her first shoot out was against renowned multi black-belt martial artist, film and television actor Marshall R. Teague. He's best known for his "bad-guy" roles, most notably in the 1989 cult movie Road House. After getting the draw and plates on Teague, she moved to the finals against Country music star Mark Wills.

Mark, shooting a production Springfield 1911 in his second Bianchi competition, is an avid gun enthusiast and host of "3-Gun Nation" on the Versus cable network. He gave Kenda stiff competition, winning the first sequence. After dropping two plates, Kenda appeared to quickly get the feel for this very different shooting sport, besting Wills in the next two sequences to win the celebrity match.

While the celebrity match is strictly for fun, Kenda's appearance at the Bianchi Cup provided a unique opportunity to bring an awareness of and spread the word about Cowboy Mounted Shooting to participants and followers of another gun sport.

Kenda was impressed by the competition, saying, "I have a new found respect for not only handling my firearm, but also for accuracy in target shooting. It was an eye opening experience having to aim a bullet on a small target at long range — far different than flying by a balloon.”

The Bianchi Cup was founded in 1979 by former police officer John Bianchi, of holster maker Bianchi International, as a law enforcement training match. It is now under the stewardship of the National Rifle Association (NRA) and supported in large part by title sponsor Midway USA.

NRA National Pistol Manager Tom Hughes and Safariland's Scott Carnahan were instrumental in setting the wheels of success in motion. Kenda received a crash course in training with Don Golembieski, was provided top of the line gear from Safariland, and had the use of a racehorse of a gun from Dave and Sydney Surgi. 🐾

Brandy, the 25 year old Palomino Horse took very short limping steps... Brandy had arthritis in her knees for years. Her ears were back and eyes at half mast. You could clearly see she was in pain.

(Iron Mountain, Michigan) The Horse Owner gave Brandy all the typical vet recommended horse medicines and food supplements -- resulting in no improvement.

Brandy's Owner was already taking an all natural food supplement herself to get rid of her headaches and dizzy spells. This special patented product is made from select grains of rice grown in Thailand. The product was developed over 16 years ago by two Thailand doctors.

This product increases energy at the cellular level (up to 54%) and rebuilds cells.

The two Thailand doctors originally fed this product to sick human babies with measurable results. Later they fed the product to adults with far-reaching improvements for many different ailments.

Brandy's Owner decided to feed this special product to her horse. She had already tried everything else.

The Owner gave this special product to Brandy for 7 months.

95% of Brandy's improvements came in the first 30 days. Yes, 30 days later you would never have known that Brandy had such severe problems. There was no more pain in her eyes and her attitude improved immensely. Her ears were up and she was interested in what you were doing.

This product works well with humans, horses, dogs, cats...almost every animal. When you see the Brandy video story done by a local TV station, you'll know this is for real.

To learn more about this very special product, call Dave. When you call you won't get a high-pressure sales pitch. I don't like that - and neither would you.
